FILMMAKER/WRITER LANCE R. MARSHALL RECEIVES DOUBLE HONORS AT 2016 OAXACA FILM FESTIVAL

OAXACA, MEXICO – Filmmaker/Writer Lance R. Marshall was honored with both the BEST HORROR and BEST ORIGINAL CONCEPT awards for his feature script, 'The Demon Deep in Oklahoma', on October 15th at the awards ceremony held at the Juarez Theatre in Oaxaca, Mexico for the 2016 Oaxaca Film Festival and Global Script Challenge.

Marshall's script tells the story of Lewis Heaton, a small town Pastor, who finds himself banished from his own church. He along with his wife Virginia and their two small children Wes and Katie, isolate themselves away in their rural country home. Virginia struggles to keep her shamed family safe from emotional and possibly demonic oppression that threatens to tear her family apart. The script was described by the festival as "THE DEMON DEEP IN OKLAHOMA is an elegantly told, cerebral American Gothic".

This was the 7th edition of the Oaxaca FilmFest which was named by MovieMaker Magazine as one of the top 50 festivals for the past 2 years. The festival has included speakers and panels through their partnership with the Sundance Institute, The Redford Center, Vimeo as well as The Blacklist and others.

The festival hosted films and scripts from around the world. Including screenings of 'Elvis & Nixon' starring Michael Shannon and Kevin Spacey, 'By Way of Helena' starring Liam Hemsworth and Woody Harrelson and 'Personal Shopper', for which Kristen Stewart was awarded Best Actress.

Lance R. Marshall is a NY based writer/director/actor whose production company, Watergun Outlaw Productions, has recently produced 3 of Marshall's short films and is currently preparing for their first web series, 'The Washings in Boone Hill County'.
